NEW VAAL SOUTH

EMPERORS PALACE
THE PALACE OF DREAMS
People of Joburg!

Zareef Minty
The dapper future politician

What is it like to be listed as The Mail and Guardian Top 200 Young South Africans?
It’s wonderful. The fact that I am listed with people like Sibusiso Leope, Buti Manamela and Tshidiso Ramogale is extremely humbling. The list also brings with it a higher level of credibility when it comes down to working with companies and collaborating with various sectors.

You’re a politician, businessman and future lawyer. Have you always been an over achiever?
Not really. During my early high school years I was just an average student but the ambition was always there. I took the first step towards my dreams by starting up a clothing company in grade 10 called SMB.

What is your novel, Empire about?
EMPIRE is a motivation self help book that teaches people how to network and self brand at the same time also speaking about other important concepts like having mentors and learning from your mistakes and the mistakes of others.

What do you love most about Joburg?
Johannesburg is absolutely beautiful. I love the general environment of ambition and drive. I love the people. I love the food and most importantly I love the social life.

What is your moment of triumph?
I have had many moments that brought huge enjoyment and satisfaction like becoming the youngest youth president at a national election to date and starting up my Build A School Foundation.

10am
I start my Saturday morning off by stopping by my showroom, located in Newtown Junction. I spend a large portion of my day there interacting with my team, clients and with other brand owners at Work Shop.

1pm
I take a break for lunch at The Potato Shed. Every time I’m there, I like ordering something different off the menu because I like trying new meals and it keeps things interesting.

3pm
A short walk around Newtown helps refresh and clear my mind. Joburg city is also a source of great inspiration – the people and the way they express their personalities with their clothing, their way of doing things and just their general style.

7pm
My siblings and I head out for dinner at one of our favourite spots, Great Dane. We love ordering ribs and pairing the meal with a glass of Chivas Regal 18 Year Old Whisky, either on the rocks or with a dash of water; it’s the perfect companion to unwind with at the end of a busy day.

If enjoying a good cuppa tea while indulging in artisan cakes at a quaint Italian patisserie tickles your fancy, pop in to Dolci Café in Craighall Park. Pastry Chef Jackie Righi-Boyd started creating speciality cakes and cupcakes for weddings and birthday parties in 2013, and after her and her husband Clayton spent time in a pastry shop in Italy, they decided to open the delightful Dolci Café.

Not only does the café offer a full lunch and breakfast menu, there’s also a wide array of fresh pastries for you to purchase and take home. And if you have any special requests, Dolci Café is happy to arrange a consultation to discuss your personal requirements.

Dolci Café is also the perfect spot for a special occasion. They offer customised high teas for when you want to feel particularly posh, and they cater for bridal showers and birthday parties, too. And if you want to keep the kiddies busy while you work on achieving your caffeine fix, Dolci Café runs gingerbread men-decorating sessions during the school holidays.

We can’t get enough of this Italian café, pastry shop and baking boutique rolled into one! We particularly loved their cappuccinos and couldn’t resist their freshly baked goods, but no matter what treats you choose to satisfy your sweet tooth, just remember: pinkies up!
